

Playspace Parent and Toddler Classes

Are you interested in building a partnership with your child that lasts a life time?

Do you want to feel supported on your parenting journey?

Would you like to connect with other parents in your community?

Would you like to learn more about natural development of the mind and body?

Then these fun, interactive and informative classes are for you.

It is now widely known that the first 1000 days are the most important time in your child's life. It is during this time that social emotional and physical development unfolds.

Making parenting one of the most important jobs for our future generations and communities.

Learning to work in partnership with children instead of against children is a step forward in a brighter future for all in Aotearoa, New Zealand.

This 10-week course has been designed and written by New Zealand's own Pennie Brownlee, a local author and child advocate.

After intensive training at the Pikler institute in Budapest, Hungry Brownlee combined her bi cultural knowledge of Aotearoa and developed a programme that would support parents and children within New Zealand, protecting children and families through participation and partnership to develop a culture of respect and kindness.

You will be welcomed into a calm safe space and gifted a beautifully illustrated handbook. During the classes, you will have time to relax and delight in your toddler's natural unfolding, giving you the space to connect and enjoy your precious time with your toddler.

Testimonials

"Have loved this course and found it super beneficial. I strongly recommend this programme, not just for the amazing content but also for the safe space with other likeminded Mums who have become my tribe".

Steph

"This has been fundamental to the way both my partner and I parent and has also allowed us to have chats with family in a constructive way around parenting".

Sian

"This weekly course has helped me to stay centered and to be a better Mum, thank you!"
